

Right to Food (Scotland) Bill

Introduction

A proposal for a Bill to incorporate the right to food into Scots law.

The consultation runs from 25 November 2021 to 16 February 2022.

All those wishing to respond to the consultation are strongly encouraged to enter their responses electronically through this survey. This makes collation of responses much simpler and quicker. However, the option also exists of sending in a separate response (in hard copy or by other electronic means such as e-mail), and details of how to do so are included in the member's consultation document.

Questions marked with an asterisk (*) require an answer.

All responses must include a name and contact details. Names will only be published if you give us permission, and contact details are never published – but we may use them to contact you if there is a query about your response. If you do not include a name and/or contact details, we may have to disregard your response.

Please note that you must complete the survey in order for your response to be accepted. If you don't wish to complete the survey in a single session, you can choose "Save and Continue later" at any point. Whilst you have the option to skip particular questions, you must continue to the end of the survey and press "Submit" to have your response fully recorded.

Please ensure you have read the consultation document before responding to any of the questions that follow. In particular, you should read the information contained in the document about how your response will be handled. The consultation document is available here:

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposal to incorporate the right to food into Scots law?

Fully supportive

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposal to incorporate the right to food into Scots law?

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Without the bill, the right to food cannot be legally enforced and we will continue as we are, which clearly isn't working.

Q2. Do you think legislation is required, or are there other ways in which the proposed Bill's aims could be achieved more effectively? Please explain the reasons for your response.

Legislation would give the right to food a backbone and those who are in need will have a clear course they can take to obtain adequate nutrition. Bodies such as Citizens Advice could also assist the vulnerable in exercising the right to food for those who wouldn't otherwise know how to obtain it.

Q3. Which of the following best expresses your view on an independent statutory body being given responsibility for overseeing and reporting on progress towards realising the right to food?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

The responsibility for this should lie with an impartial body, with no links, affiliations or opportunity for personal gain.

Q4. Should an independent body be given responsibility for overseeing and reporting on the right to food, do you think it should be:

Either option

Please explain the reasons for your response.

I haven't enough knowledge to give an adequate answer but again, this must be an impartial body with no opportunity for gain, such as Office for National Statistics.

Q5. Which of the following best expresses your view of enshrining a right to food into Scots law as a priority in advance of, and in a manner which is compatible with, any further Scottish Government legislation on wider human rights?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

If future bills are passed on human rights I would be fully supportive but in the meantime we have a food crisis and this requires immediate action.

Q6. Which of the following best expresses your view of placing responsibility for guaranteeing the right to food on the Scottish Government?

Fully supportive

Q6. Which of the following best expresses your view of placing responsibility for guaranteeing the right to food on the Scottish Government?

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Government should ensure the right to food along with other basic human rights and are in the best position to make this a legal right.

Covid-19 Pandemic

Q7. What impact do you consider the effects of, and response to, the Covid-19 pandemic has had on the need for a right to food to be incorporated into Scots law?

Increased the need for the Bill

Please explain the reasons for your response.

More people have been pushed into food poverty due to job losses during the pandemic and food banks have been hit with unprecedented demand.

Financial Implications

Q8. Taking into account all those likely to be affected (including public sector bodies, businesses and individuals etc), is the proposed Bill likely to lead to:

don't know

Please indicate where you would expect the impact identified to fall (including public sector bodies, businesses and individuals etc). You may also wish to suggest ways in which the aims of the Bill could be delivered more cost-effectively.

Perhaps areas of waste land could be cleaned and made fit to grow fresh organic produce. This could be government owned, providing jobs for the unemployed, opportunities to volunteer for work experience, food to be distributed in local communities including those who work on site. This also supports the local environment and helps government to keep some of their environmental pledges to Scotland.

Equalities

Q9. What overall impact is the proposed Bill likely to have on equality, taking account of the following protected characteristics (under the Equality Act 2010): age, disability, gender re-assignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation?

Positive

Please explain the reasons for your response. Where any negative impacts are identified, you may also wish to suggest ways in which these could be minimised or avoided.

Food poverty disproportionately discriminates against the poor, many of whom cannot work due to illness and disability. Having access to adequate nutrition can be challenging financially and physically as some are unable to prepare a simple meal without input. Physical help may also be considered as important as the the right to obtain the food.

Sustainability

Q10. In terms of assessing the proposed Bill's potential impact on sustainable development, you may wish to consider how it relates to the following principles:

- living within environmental limits
- ensuring a strong, healthy and just society
- achieving a sustainable economy
- promoting effective, participative systems of governance
- ensuring policy is developed on the basis of strong scientific evidence.

With these principles in mind, do you consider that the Bill can be delivered sustainably?

Yes

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Good nutrition benefits mental health as well as the physical. Government owned land can be transformed for organic food production. This provides jobs, organic produce distributed locally through channels created to support the proposed legislation. This also helps increase biodiversity in local areas, improves wasted areas of land and boosts local morale.

General

Q11. Do you have any other additional comments or suggestions on the proposed Bill (which have not already been covered in any of your responses to earlier questions)?

Supermarkets and big business should be fined for food waste through a track and trace program that leads directly back to them. We have plenty of food being thrown away and this has to stop. Production limits should be introduced and put people and planet over profit. All waste should be legally given to centres for the poor prior to expiration dates to ensure safety for those who will consume it. This also creates jobs, makes a greener economy and helps those in need. I believe Scotland could lead the way globally to eradicate food poverty and support environmental pledges if these strategies were in place.
